

Eritrean Ambassador to the United Kingdom and Ireland Holds a Public Seminar

Meadna News 03/06/2007

Eritrean Ambassador to the United Kingdom and Ireland Mr Negasi Sengal gave a public seminar in London on Sunday June the 3rd. The ambassador went into great detail covering various topics including diplomatic, social, economic and current developments.

Mr. Negasi stated the accomplishments that have been made in building infrastructures, working to achieve national food security and providing social services, such as education, healthcare. Mr. Negasi also talked about diplomatic issues and Eritrea's positive role in the region.

Before handing over to the floor for questions and answers session, Mr. Negasi announced the seminar was his last with Eritreans in the UK as he has been moved to Eritrea. Mr. Negasi expressed his gratitude to the Eritrean people in the UK and affirmed that he will continue serving his country with integrity and to the best of his ability. After a moment of emotional encounter between Mr. Negasi and participants of the meeting, the people were given opportunity to ask questions.

Mr. Ngasi was also given an award of recognition of his great contribution in introducing an efficient and organized working system by Ericommerce. True to the Eritrean leadership's culture of humbleness, he received the award by saying he had only done little. A part of the seminar was also dedicated to issues relating public services at the embassy and land and housing issues.
